'Uncle Bobby' is gone

"Uncle Bobby" is gone. Those who became familiar with the rapid fire, off the cuff patter of "Uncle Bobby," the air name of R. H. (Bob) Thompson, will be missing it now.

For "Uncle Bobby" sold WWSN to the McDougald Boys, Horace, Worth and Donald, and they took over on July 1, thus ending an eight-year period during which the voice of Bob Thompson was heard in chorus with community leaders dedicated to the progress and development of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

With unbounded energy Mr. Thompson devoted his time and facilities toward the promotion of the civic welfare. He took the youth and their projects to heart and gave them air time. He put the High School Blue Devils and the Georgia Teachers College Professors on the air. All civic projects found time available on Bob Thompson's WWSN, "Where Nature Smiles," the slogan attached to the radio call letters by the late Alfred Dorman who founded the station.

Though in a competing field, we never felt that Bob Thompson was a competitor. We manager to work together for the common good of the community we both called home.

We'll miss "Uncle Bobby" and wish for him happiness and peace in his new enterprise as owner and operator of the New Solms Hotel-Motel at Savannah Beach.

We say welcome!

We join the people of Statesboro and Bulloch County in bidding welcome to Horace McDougald, Worth McDougald and Don McDougald, the new owners and operators of Radio WWSN.

They have purchased the radio station from Bob Thompson and assumed control on Tuesday, July 1.

Born and reared here in Bulloch County these boys have a deep and abiding love for their home. They need not announce that they intend to devote their time, talents and radio facilities to the promotion, development and progress of Statesboro and Bulloch County. We know they will.

We have known these young men all our lives. Their father, who wrote a column for our editorial page in the early days of the Herald, gave them all a feel for journalism, though Worth is the only one of the three with formal training. They are well equipped by nature, personality and training to give the community in which we all live the radio service we deserve.

We pledge them our cooperation and express for them our good wishes.

No small matter

One of our readers agrees with us on our comments on the dog problem in Statesboro and Bulloch County.

But he says there's another problem that needs attention and it could be easily eliminated by proper police enforcement of the law. The problem which bothers him is the auto drivers who race up and down our streets without the benefit of a muffler or with doctored-up muffler. Just about the time the older people of our community lie down for their afternoon naps they are being shocked out of their deserved rest by one of these problem makers.

And another reader complains about neighbors who leave their outdoor lights on or when they "cook-out" under their outdoor spotlights they forget that their neighbors are trying to get to sleep.

Small matters one says. But they are small matters only to those who are not bothered by them.

We suggest that police exercise closer check on the "muffler boys" and that neighbors exercise more discretion with their backyard lights.

Good going!

Good going young fellow!

That is the way we feel about a young man who knows what he wanted and whose parents are understanding and gave him the opportunity to see if he is right.

Recently Guy Lombardo, world famous orchestra leader and producer of musical shows, opened a musical extravaganza at Jones Beach, New York, called "Song of Norway."

Included in the cast of singers and dancers is "B" Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carroll of Georgia Teachers College.

"B" has had his heart set on the theatre all his days. We recall his many, many appearances in local affairs in which he managed to get across to his audiences that they were getting the best of what he had to offer and that it was pretty good. We liked that.

He entered Florida State University at Tallahassee and did well. He comes up for his share of time in the armed forces of Uncle Sam pretty soon. He wanted to know if he could succeed at what he wanted to do most of all in the world, go into the theatre business. If he waited until he got out of service, and then finished college, it would be too late. If he found out that the theatre is not for him, then he would have gotten it out of his system and be set to go about doing his duty to Uncle Sam, finish college and find his proper place in service.

He was in New York City for several months going about the business of looking for a bit. And now look at him—in the singing and dancing cast of one of New York's biggest summer attractions.

You say, "but he's just a singer and dancer?"

We say—"That's only the bottom of the ladder."

Plenty investigated

Governor Griffin's administration will probably be the most investigated administration in the history of the state by the time his term is over.

As of today there are three investigation groups, each dedicated to the proposition of ferreting out alleged irregularities in our state government.

There is Governor Griffin's own investigation headed by former Highway Chairman Roger H. Lawson. There is the Senate Watchdog Committee headed by Sen. William Trotter. And there is a special Fulton County investigation headed by Paul Cadenhead.

It's going to be interesting to learn what irregularities against whom these three investigating groups discover.

By voice vote the Senate approved another provision permitting Austria to spend the equivalent of $4 million in counterpart funds—foreign currencies paid to the United States for surplus agricultural commodities and equipment furnished under the foreign aid program—to pay off the claims of damages filed by its citizens against Nazi Germany. It did so in face of the fact that it was setting a precedent for a flood of other such demands from other countries which could result in a $740 million giveaway—that amount being the value in counterpart funds presently credited to the United States throughout the world.

A MAJORITY of senators further indicated their intention to make foreign aid a permanent budget fixture by voting to build offices and houses for foreign aid employees abroad and to create the job of permanent Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs at an annual salary of $22,000.

How long the United States can continue such indiscriminate outpouring of its billions overseas is a source of grave concern to those who fear for the economic future of the country. It is elemental that a nation which cannot solve the economic problems of its own 174-million inhabitants hardly can pay for the economic development of a country like India for 400-million people without bankrupting itself.

There were 47 senators who supported the provision committing the United States to provide support of the "type, magnitude and duration adequate to assist India to complete successfully." Its Second Five Year Plan which calls for the expenditure of $15 billion to develop heavy industry. They took that position despite provisions of the Constitution which clearly prohibit one Congress from binding future Congresses and which vest the treaty-making power in the Executive Branch.

What Does the Future Hold?

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

NO BELLS NEEDED TODAY

BELLS are getting scarce these days. What kind of bells? Any kind I searched our town last week and finally found a cow bell.

I should tell you why I wanted a bell. A workman out at the construction site of the new Pittman Park Methodist Church is responsible. When he met me at the beginning of last week, he grinned and said—"I'll have to get a bell and tie it around your ankle so I'll know when you're coming."

This went on for several days until I decided to call his hand. It was then that I searched for the bell, and having borrowed one, I strolled up to him ringing it as loudly as I could. Needless to say, he had a good laugh and we continue to have a fine relationship.

SUCH AN experience makes one remember the basic fundamental purpose of the Christian faith. It recalls to one's mind the age-old truth "I'd rather see a sermon any day than hear one." And this little gem fits both ministers and laymen alike.

Some years ago in my home town there lived a Methodist minister who left an indelible mark upon that community. He was in New York City for several months going about the business of looking for a bit. And now look at him—in the singing and dancing cast of one of New York's biggest summer attractions.

You say, "but he's just a singer and dancer?"

We say—"That's only the bottom of the ladder."

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

THIS WEEK we say "Thanks" to J. B. Johnson for sending us a copy of The Territorial Enterprise, a weekly newspaper published in Virginia City, Nevada. J. B. must have passed through Virginia City on his recent trip to the West. We appreciate very much the expression of his interest. The Territorial Enterprise is something special to weekly newspaper people. It is published in what is known as the liveliest Ghost Town in the World, once the site of the famous Comstock Lode from which more than $400,000,000 worth of gold was mined for over eighty years through 1940. Samuel L. Clemens, known as Mark Twain, worked on the Territorial Enterprise as a reporter in 1862. The famous Bret Harte also worked on the newspaper, which was the first newspaper in Nevada.

The newspaper is unique in the weekly field. It still used the stylized type faces of the middle 1800's. It carries pictures of the "good ole days" and does much to keep alive the historical values of the community.

was an able preacher, efficient administrator, understanding counselor and more—You already felt that some of his goodness had rubbed off on you when he passed you on the street. He passed to engage you in conversation. There was no need to ask, "And who are you?" It was quite evident that here was a man of God. And he required no bell around his neck to tell one that he was in earshot.

I AM THINKING just now of a Christian laywoman who inspires the heart in just that same sort of way. It does you good just to be around her. Her very presence preaches a sermon more effectively than ten thousand well chosen words. Neither does she need a bell to let one know that she is in the area. You just know!

I HAVE MANY goals and aims for my life. I don't know but that the highest aim deals with this whole matter of influence. My constant prayer is that my spirit will reflect the Spirit of Christ, and that the influence of my life can be felt in the lives of people wherever I go.

Yes, I want the time to come when my relationship to God will be such that I will say—"No bells needed today."

There are some items in the news last week about which I would like to comment. One of the harder decisions to make when one writes for a weekly paper lies in the selection of a single topic for discussion. Since I am an avid reader of current events topics and publications concerned with the news of the day it is doubly hard for me to make such a decision.

GOVERNOR MARVIN GRIFIN last week announced the appointment of the members to serve on the Georgia Recreation Commission. The commission was created at the last session of the Georgia General Assembly and is made up of appointments from each congressional district, one appointment from each, giving the commission a ten-member governing body. Mr. Talmadge says it called the appointees to Atlanta on July 15 to receive the oath of office. At this time Georgian will be given an opportunity to take a look at this new commission.

SENATOR HERMAN TALMADGE, speaking from Washington, certainly voiced my feelings this week concerning the captured Americans being held in Germany, Russia and Cuba. Mr. Talmadge says if we can't protect our men we ought to bring them home. To this I would simply like to add, Amen.

many families this week who are attending the funerals of loved ones who were sacrificed on the July 4 holiday weekend. It sometimes wonder if we shouldn't perhaps just give up some of our holidays in the war against death on the highways. If these people were being killed in battle we would make great sacrifices in their behalf. Why not work just as hard and with just as much effort to stop the tragic loss of life on our highways?

I HAVE SOME friends who believe that we are punished by the Lord for the sins we commit while we live. I have no argument with this belief either for or against. I will say that if the good Lord wants to punish moms and dads for their shortcomings I don't know of a better way to do it than to let it rain for four days straight. By the time Sunday night had rolled around at our house our three youngsters were still going strong but Ma and Pa were about ready for the hot house. If we hadn't called in some help Sunday night and slipped off to church I don't think we could have made it. We used to just think that rain was the only way we could make to church for he looked right at us when he talked about how the home was the first place we ought to practice Christian living.

I SEE in the paper where Senator Scott Kerr wrote his folks back home that he might figures released last week which show that 35,700,000,000 cigarettes were shipped in April of this year and that's 11 per cent higher than for April, 1957. April of this year was the tenth month in the last twelve that smoking tobacco volume has risen. And that does not account for the cigars smoked and the packages of pipe tobacco, the cans of snuff, and the plugs of chewing tobacco consumed.

SOMETHING NEW has been added to the staff of The Bulloch Herald. To put it in high sounding words... an advertisement for the new newspaper, which was the first newspaper in Nevada.

Mr. John Rushing Jr. has cultivated all his soybeans once on his farm near Brooklet. His vivid comment, "It doesn't look so trashy now," pretty well describes his results. It did look trashy farming when he had in his head the new newspaper. It was just that. But his first cultivation almost got him "out of the mulch."

I would like to comment on this trashy look which will necessarily be associated with this method of farming. First of all it is impossible to cover all the small grain stubble and straw when planting. This, however, is not bad. The straw will protect the soil from the beating effect of rain and the hot sun. It will insulate the soil and make it cooler. It will keep the rain and hold it in the crop's future need. It will prevent grass and weeds from coming in so quickly. These advantages, I think, outweigh the disadvantage of the "trashy look."

Mr. Rushing had no difficulty whatsoever plowing his beans. He used two methods which accomplish similar results. One tractor was equipped with fallen wings with spring teeth behind the sweeps. Both setups did a nice job of "harrowing off" and "siding up" the disks.

Mr. Frank Proctor is also doing a very good job on his first cultivation. Frank said, "I didn't have a bit of trouble."

IF insect control problems get you down, just remember that the Congress has passed a bill to make worse. Of the 85,000 different kinds of insects in the United States only 10,000 are considered public enemies. In fact, many insects are beneficial to man. At least 50 important U. S. crops depend on insects for pollination.

As a wrap-up for the week I would like to suggest that some good writer take hold of the Goodline Investigation. There is certainly enough material available to write the best comic opera in current day history.

THE BULLOCH HERALD

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS
Soil Conservation Service

Last week I gave you some results of much planting of soybeans following combined small grain by co-operators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District in Bulloch. I pointed out co-operators scattered all over the county who have obtained excellent results. This week I would like to give you some experiences of one of these people in their first cultivation "in the mulch."

Boll weevil and bollworm becomes big problem to farmers this year

By ROY POWELL
County Agent

INSECT CONTROL WEEK

This is Insect Control Week in Georgia and I don't have to tell you cotton growers that there are plenty of insects around to control. Bollworm infestations in Georgia are the worst in many years. The boll weevil is around too, in sufficient numbers to do plenty of damage. Watch out for both and make sure you are practicing good control measures.

COTTON INSECT SPRAYERS

Cotton growers using sprayers should remember that where bollworm infestation is severe, thorough coverage is absolutely essential to good control. Spray patterns of tiny droplets with enough force to reach the undersides of leaves are necessary for effective cotton insect control. If the nozzles are set too close to the plants, the spray cone is broken before the spray pattern has a chance to develop. Nozzles should never be allowed to dry out when planted. If the rain and hold it in the crop's future need. It will prevent grass and weeds from coming in so quickly. These advantages, I think, outweigh the disadvantage of the "trashy look."

Recent rains make crops look better than expected around Stilson

The rains of the past few weeks have brought out the crops in this section of the county. The corn looks real good, and the tobacco has come out fine since the rains began. It looks as if the crops are going to turn out better than was expected a few weeks ago. Peasants look good. If it doesn't continue to rain until the crops are drowned out, let's hope that doesn't happen.

I have served as a member of the Bulloch County Board of Commissioners since January, 1957. I am a veteran of World War II.

Negroes say thanks for Blitch Street Center

In no better way can we celebrate National Recreation Month than by expressing our thanks and appreciation to the city of Statesboro, its officials and the Recreation Department for our Blitch Street Community Center.

Few parents realize the true value of play. Though children learn to make a living and school is essential, they also need to learn about life itself. They learn most readily at play. Through supervised activities at the center, our children are learning to build sound standards for themselves; they are learning how to get along with people and how to behave in general.

It is our hope that our entire community will progressively continue to cooperate with the program, give the supervisor and sports director the support that they deserve and our children the chance to live fully.

To those who have worked for us and have made our center a reality we extend our gratitude.

Have you ever heard someone say "I love reading but I never have a minute to read"? Your Public Library reminds you that even a few minutes spent each day in reading adds up at the year's end to much profit and pleasure.

Nevils Methodist Youth Fellowship presents program Sunday night

By MRS. JIM ROWE

The Nevils M.Y.F. will have a unique program next Sunday night. Many of the members have done extensive traveling and have had many rich experiences during the months of June. Alwynne Burness, past president, was chosen to attend "Boys State" at Georgia Tech for one week recently, where he had some rich governmental experiences which he will share with the group Sunday night at the regular M.Y.F. meeting. John Thomas Hodges, vice president, has just returned from an extended trip to St. Louis, Chicago and other cities with all expenses paid by the publisher of "Farm and Ranch" magazine.

MORNING PARTY COMPLIMENT TO PATRICIA BRANNEN

Mrs. Cliff Bradley and her daughter, Mrs. Bob Darby of Jacksonville, entertained with a morning party, Monday, July 7, in the private dining room at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen, honoring Mrs. Patricia Brannen, bride-elect of early fall.

The table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of pale cream glads and rubrum lilies. An original bridal game which challenged the artistic talent was very clever. Note paper, tied with bridal ribbons and a pencil, were handed out to the guests with the assignment that each girl present draw her conception of a beautiful bouquet for a bride. Mrs. Albert S. Brannen Jr. was the winner. Her prize was a whisk brush.

The guests were served a congealed salad, chicken salad sandwiches, cheese straws and punch.

The guests were Miss Brannen, her mother, Mrs. H. L. Brannen, Mrs. Henry Blitch, mother of the groom-elect, and Jimmy's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Dan Blitch Sr., Patricia's grandmother, Mrs. Julian Brannen, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Albert Brannen Jr.

Patricia was lovely in a pink and white polished cotton sun dress with a tiered skirt worn with a small white hat with pink rosette trim.

Children from Keith's Sunday school and the nursery and other friends were invited.

Her long hair became a problem

Because her hair was too long it became a problem. So she had to have it cut off.

For sixty-four years Miss Eunice Futch had no trouble with her hair. She just took good care of it, never doing anything to it except to wash it in rain water when she felt it needed washing.

Then not too long ago Miss Futch became ill and had to go to the doctor, for the first time in her life, as a patient. She then spent ten days in the local hospital and then went to the Eugene Talmaad Hospital in Augusta for further treatment.

It was in the hospitals that her hair became a problem, for you see, Miss Futch's hair is not just ordinary hair. Red in color, without a sign of graying, Miss Futch was unable to care for it while lying in bed and the nurses were unable to help her with it. When she returned to her home with her sister near Stillson, she found that her problem was still with her. So she cut her hair off.

The reason Miss Futch's hair had become a problem was that it was longer than she is tall, nearly three feet longer than her five feet four inches height.

One "switch," which she describes as a "short switch" measures six feet. And managing hair that long created her problem which she solved by cutting it off.

While combing her hair she stood on sheets of paper on the floor in order to keep the ends clean.

Miss Futch is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Futch of Bryan County. She was born on August 22, 1893. Until she was eight years of age she wore her hair in a shingle bob. She is one of five children, three of whom are still living. She lives with her sister and her brother lives close by near Stillson.

Parties for Miss Blackburn. Mrs. Aubrey Brown and Mrs. J. L. Strange Jr. were hostesses at bridge Tuesday afternoon honoring Miss Carolyn Blackburn, whose marriage was a lovely event on Sunday, June 15.

Mrs. Brown's home was decorated in pink and white, with pink glads and Queen Anne's lace predominated in the flowers used. The color motif prevailed in party sandwiches and individual cakes embossed with pink rosebuds, served with pink lemonade. During intermission Coca-Cola and salted nuts were served.

Some 430 youngsters are now enrolled in the swimming instruction program at the Swim Center according to information released today by the Statesboro Recreation Department. A breakdown on attendance figures shows that some 36 per cent of the students came from outside the Statesboro area. Even with the extension of the city limits the year the rural attendance in the program continues well above the one-day mark.

Recreation officials stated that the instruction program this year would be extended through the month of August in order that all those who are away for the summer might have the opportunity to take advantage of the instruction program.

An increased demand for adult instruction is being made on the department according to Max Lockwood, recreation superintendent. Mr. Lockwood stated that this service will be available to adults later in the summer. Adults may register by phone if they are interested in swimming lessons and then they will be notified when classes begin.

The registration figure is expected to top 500 mark set in the program in 1957. New students must enter the water to be classified.

Some 430 youngsters are now enrolled in the swimming instruction program at the Swim Center according to information released today by the Statesboro Recreation Department. Even with the extension of the city limits the year the rural attendance in the program continues well above the one-day mark.

Recreation officials stated that the instruction program this year would be extended through the month of August in order that all those who are away for the summer might have the opportunity to take advantage of the instruction program.

An increased demand for adult instruction is being made on the department according to Max Lockwood, recreation superintendent. Mr. Lockwood stated that this service will be available to adults later in the summer. Adults may register by phone if they are interested in swimming lessons and then they will be notified when classes begin.

The registration figure is expected to top 500 mark set in the program in 1957. New students must enter the water to be classified.

REC. DEPARTMENT OFFERS
A NEW SERVICE TO COMMUNITY

The Statesboro Recreation Department announced today the addition of a new facility in Memorial Park. The snack shack, located just behind the Fair Road Center, now offers the services of a fully equipped snack bar. The snack bar is open all day long and the facilities of the recreation program are open to the public.

This will be of special interest to those groups interested in having birthday parties and other parties in the park year round since ice cream cups, drinks of all flavors and other fountain specialties will be available right in the park.

Mothers no longer will have to be concerned about where to get their ice cream and about how to keep the drinks cool until serving time. This will be an added feature for the party.

Parents interested in obtaining large quantities of ice cream should contact the center in advance.

It's even possible to arrange for hot dogs to be served to the group for just 10 cents each.

The department extends to all citizens the special invitation to enjoy the new addition in facilities, designed to serve everyone.
